IRAN WARNS EU WILL 'REGRET SERVITUDE TO US' OVER IRGC TERROR LISTING

Iranian officials have warned that the EU's designation of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps (IRGC) will have serious consequences, insisting the decision will not hinder the force's mission but will rebound against Europe.

The Democratic News
Tehran, Jan 30

Abdollah Haji Sadeqi, representative of the Islamic Revolution Leader to the IRGC, said sanctions against the force would not undermine its duties but would carry "heavy repercussions" for the EU. He said the consequences of the decision would ultimately return to those who made it. Referring to the EU's recent move, Haji Sadeqi said hostility from Iran's adversaries is nothing new. He added that the European Union has proved its "servitude to the United States" and submission to Western and American bullying, adding that such behavior had nevertheless surprised some observers. He said the IRGC is an official institution of the Islamic Republic and that the EU's action amounts to "an insult to the Iranian state that would not remain without repercussions. "The cleric called the European Union "[US President Donald] Trump's servant" and said the bloc had lost its identity and independence. "The dignity and reputation of these servants are being exposed one after another, and their true nature is being revealed," he said. Iranian Parliament Speaker Mohammad-Baqer Qalibaf also slammed the designation. Qalibaf wrote in a post on the social media platform X that the IRGC is "one of the stron-other, and their true nature is being revealed," he said. Iranian Parliament Speaker Mohammad-Baqer Qalibaf also slammed the designation. Qalibaf wrote in a post on the social media platform X that the IRGC is "one of the strongest and most effective anti-terrorism forces in the world." He added that only those who "stand on the side of terrorists" could deny the IRGC's record in fighting the Daesh terrorist group. "Supporting terrorism will bring nothing but regret for European countries," Qalibaf wrote.

Meanwhile, Admiral Ali Shamkhani, a senior advisor to the Leader of the Islamic Revolution, noted that countermeasures to the EU's decision will be "immediate." "The West doesn't 'define' terrorism, it 'uses' it: aiding the killing in Gaza, installing terrorists, and engineering insecurity are 'policy,' while IRGC's fight against Daesh is 'terrorism,' showing how #US and #Europe have warped the concept," Shamkhani wrote in a post on X on Friday.

The European Union added the IRGC to its terrorist list in response to Iran's measures against rioters who violently wreaked havoc across the country on the invitation of a monarchist and the public incitement of US and Israeli leaders in late December.

What after Ajit Pawar? Maharashtra politics in conundrum

Rajiv Gandhi was made the prime minister, plucking him out of the air, as it were, with the Constitution being set aside. In both cases urgency was a factor.

The Democratic News
Maharashtra, Jan 30

Lyndon Johnson was sworn in as president after John Kennedy's assassination on the very aircraft the slain leader's body, as per the US laws governing presidential succession. Rajiv Gandhi was made the prime minister, plucking him out of the air, as it were, with the Constitution being set aside. In both cases urgency was a factor. In Ajit Pawar's case, there is no such contingency but the political ramifications of his death in an air crash in Maharashtra's Baramati on Wednesday, January 28, has triggered informed speculation and also by the man on the street. This started even before his body's post-mortem commenced. There are several strands worth looking at and each has its significance.

Before the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) decides at its policy making body, which would likely be after the shock of Ajit Pawar's death wears off, the voters have a chance to decide where the party stood in the pecking order in the three-party ruling alliance that rules Maharashtra - the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), Eknath Shinde's Shiv Sena and Ajit Pawar's NCP.
